

The finest quality leads to the finest finish

Specials in effect September 13 to October 8, 2004.

Reds

Generally linked to passion and sensuality, red bestows an aphrodisiacal effect to any bedroom. It is equally suitable for other rooms in the house. Warm and friendly, pinker variations can even stimulate one's appetite. It is without fail the colour for passionately dynamic people.

Oranges

A blend of yellow and red, orange is as stimulating as it is joyful. It conjures up fire, earth and the sunset, making it a cozy colour, too. It is sometimes used to evoke warmth in rooms facing north and in the basement.

Neutrals

Neutral colours like beige, grey and taupe are classics that never go out of style. Widely regarded as timeless and as enduring as ancient temples and monuments, they can serve to soften other ambient colours that may be too vivid.

Purples

The colour of spirituality, purple inspires mystery and elegance. It is a contrasting mix of soft blues and dazzling reds. Purple exudes a refreshingly cool sensation in hot, sunny rooms, and lends a more spacious appearance to smaller rooms.
